Irish Broadband expands network

Sandyford: Irish Broadband has completed a €13 million expansion to double its nationwide network — expanding both its capacity and coverage.

The investment will allow the company to connect more customers in areas it already serves, and in new locations such as Swords and Coolock in Dublin, Summerville in Waterford and Raheen in Limerick.

Irish Broadband chief executive Neil Parkinson said: "We are future proofing our network by using the latest technologies, and, crucially, WiMAX. This technology enables personal broadband — anytime, anywhere Internet connectivity."
